Helping the Global Economy Recover From the Invasion of Ukraine

The General Assembly

Conscious of the many problems food inflation is causing in Ukraine and other member nations severely impacted by the invasion, such as increased cost of living, lower purchasing power, increased poverty, and increased unemployment,

Deeply concerned by the widespread displacement of individuals caused by the unprovoked invasion of Ukraine by the Russian Federation, many of whom have extensive knowledge of agriculture, infrastructure, and sustainable energy,

Considering the benefits that integration of refugees could offer, including the potential to drive innovation in sustainable practices, stimulate economic growth, reduce the reliance of refugees on humanitarian aid, and promote a greater degree of social cohesion and mutual understanding between host communities and refugee populations,

Alarmed by the recent inflation rate of food prices at 20%, the increase in unemployment, the decrease in job opportunities, and the general struggling economy of Ukraine and other nations impacted by the unprovoked invasion,

1. Demands that the Russian Federation immediately withdraw from Ukraine;
 - a. The unprovoked attack on Ukraine has spiraled into a global crisis and a vicious cycle of inflation, poverty, and unemployment has severely hindered the global economy;
 - b. The withdrawal of Russia from Ukraine would facilitate the reconstruction of infrastructure in Ukraine and allow the global economy to recover;
 - i. The Russian Federation would be forced to compensate for the repair of 80% of damaged infrastructure, thereby expediting the process of reconstruction;

2. Requests that all mentally and physically capable refugees will be offered incentives to help with the construction and maintenance of the Allied Agricultural Institution (refer to clause 5);
 - a. These incentives shall include the support services offered in the fifth clause along with a guaranteed base income that is 25% higher than that of the country the refugee is working in;
3. Calls upon the creation of the Allied Agricultural Institution (AAI), which will be devoted to further combating the inflation of food prices, most notably corn, grains, livestock, and other various fruits;
 - a. The countries hosting these farms will include, but not limited to, Brazil, Panama, Colombia, Turkey, the United States, the Philippines, and Australia;
 - i. Considering the suitability of the terrain of these countries and the fact that they are geographically the furthest from the conflict, they would make perfect candidates for potential agricultural hosts of the AAI;
 - b. The money generated from the AAI, in collaboration with the World Food Programme (WFP), will help increase the GDP of host nations and foreign investors of the AAI, which will, in turn, help make more funds available to support the rebuilding of Ukraine's infrastructure and lower food inflation;
 - c. The AAI is set to secure financial backing from prominent countries including Brazil, Turkey, Australia, the United Kingdom, France, and the United States along with the WFP, which is expected to be paid back from the revenue generated from the AAI within ten years;
 - i. The respective countries will each pay a minimum of 30 Million USD to help fund the building of the farms;
 - ii. 80 million dollars shall be requested from the WFP;
 - iii. The money shall be sent to the AAI and preamble planning shall be completed by June 1st, 2024 to allow for food inflation to be lowered promptly;
4. Proposes a 40 Million USD plan which will supply aircraft currently being unused by airlines to fly refugees from Ukraine to the designated AAI compounds;
 - a. This funding will be raised by investments made by NATO and foreign investors including the nations listed above in clause 3;
 - b. Refugees will begin to be flown over on January 1st, 2024 after the preamble planning is completed and the AAIs are ready to be constructed;

5. Proclaims that refugees from the Russian Federation's unprovoked invasion of Ukraine who are helping with the implementation of the AAI should be strategically integrated into their host country's economy;

- a. These refugees should be provided with adequate shelter, access to food and healthcare, primary education, and legal services, along with vocational training and training specific to the construction of the agricultural institutions;
 - i. These support services will be provided by already existing United Nations Organizations, such as the UNHCR, working in the nations where the agricultural institutions will be constructed;
- b. These support services will cost around 90-100 million USD in total per 10,000 refugees;
- c. If all of these support services are adequately implemented, the initial investment will be offset after economies recover from the Russian invasion;
 - i. The refugees will be helping to build and run the agricultural institutions, which will create new jobs and lower the 20% food inflation levels to a more sustainable level, while also helping to increase the GDP of AAI host countries, foreign investors, and Ukraine;
- d. The most vital of these support services including shelter and food shall be provided upon the arrival of the refugees, with the remaining services being fully deployed by January 1st, 2025;

7. Calls upon the creation of the Export Diversion Program (EDP), which would divert Ukrainian agricultural exports to the Mediterranean Sea via rail to bypass the Black Sea blockade;

- a. The railroad route will extend from Athens to Uzhhorod by connecting existing routes throughout Eastern Europe;
- b. Expenses for the construction of railroads would partially be supported by the above nations while additional funds could be obtained from the WTO;

8. Calls upon the creation of a task force that helps Ukraine and other nations most significantly impacted by the invasion of Ukraine;

- a. The Task Force Supporting Nations Impacted by the Russian Invasion will help to rebuild infrastructure, provide job training, create new jobs, and provide humanitarian aid to Ukraine;
- b. Additionally, this task force will create jobs in nations whose economies have been significantly impacted by the invasion;
 - i. This will be done by partnering with both the public and private sectors by creating new investment opportunities for foreign

- investors, investing in small businesses, and employing citizens to help rebuild infrastructure which will automatically create jobs;
- c. It will also be a priority to lower the number of youth who are not in education, employment, or training (NEET) in Ukraine and the other nations impacted by the invasion;
 - i. This will specifically be done by partnering with UNICEF to provide labor education to teens and young adults while also helping unemployed and educated youth enter the workforce;
- d. A budget determined on a country-by-country basis will be funded by NATO, the nations and foreign investors mentioned above, and NGOs;

9. Encourages the creation of a Financial Fair Play Plan ensuring that no scandalous acts involving imports, exports, and independent monetary and fiscal policies occur;

- a. Countries that commit scandalous acts such as the invasion will be met with harsh punishments deemed appropriate to the circumstance, some of which may include sanctions;

10. Encourages the implementation of tighter monetary policies to combat inflation;

- a. The stricter monetary policies will help to regulate a country's money supply, interest rates, and overall financial system and inflation levels;
 - i. The stricter monetary policies will be effective as soon as possible;
- b. The global economy would greatly benefit from stronger monetary policies as they would promote price stability, manage exchange rates, stimulate economic growth, and manage financial stability;
- c. These monetary policies will be overlooked by the World Bank;
 - i. Independent monetary policies will still exist and be strengthened, as dependency on a single monetary policy would slow global economic growth and increase inflation;
- d. Free trade agreements will also be provided by NATO for countries that invest in this resolution.
